

NET ZERO MEANS EXTINCTION

(Net Zero is a bad idea – very bad indeed)

If the green fanatics get their way and CO₂ is reduced by 64% all life on the planet becomes extinct.

CO₂ provides the carbon needed to form sugars and starch in plants. –it is the key to the miracle of photosynthesis. It provides all the oxygen that humans and animals breathe. It is how organic matter is created from mineral elements.

CO₂ now forms 0.0417% of the atmosphere – 417 parts per million. At 150ppm there is not enough CO₂ for photosynthesis to provide energy for plants, vegetation, crops, grass, algae and plankton. Without organic matter life comes to an end. The world we be like Mars – a desert of rocks.

All of it.

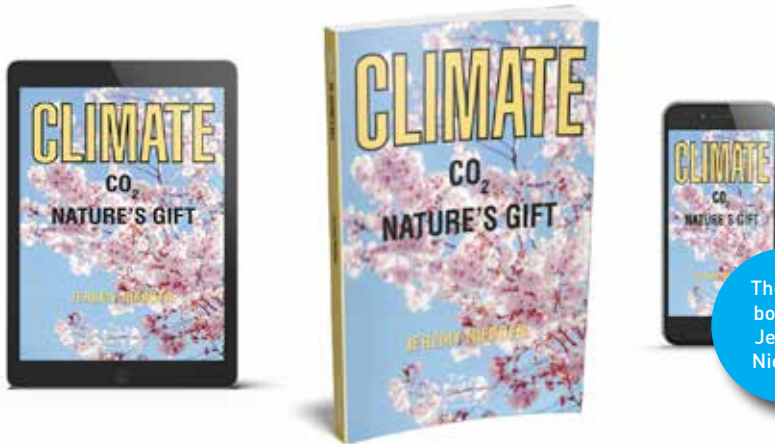

For 99% of the 500m years since plants appeared CO₂ was 5 to 8 times higher than now. It has never caused global warming. It is the source of all food. The best density of CO₂ for crops is 1,200 – 2,000 ppm – 3 to 5 times today's level. Even with the modest increase in the last 150 years from 280 to 417ppm crop yields have doubled.

And another thing. With more CO₂ to feed them plants do not need as many openings in their leaves to let it in – their 'stomata'. This means they lose much less water out of the stomata. That is why the south Sahara has been greening over the past 25 years. It is why desert regions in China have become fertile. This is not because of more rain or more sun or costly fertilisers. It is because of more CO₂.

There was CO₂ famine until 1960. Since then crop yields have rocketed. The population has increased by four billion, but food supplies in countries not torn by war have met demand.

THERE IS NO CLIMATE CRISIS.

NO GREENHOUSE IN THE SKY

A new booklet by best-selling Amazon author Jeremy Nieboer demolishes the 'Greenhouse in the Sky' of green climate fanatics.

In 'CO₂ - Nature's Gift' he shows that there is no CO₂ blanket around the Earth.

Less than half the energy from the Sun reaches the surface from where all but 6% is lost by evaporation or radiation to space.

What happens to the 6%?

In the 200m above the surface 80% of it is absorbed by H₂O -water vapour - and only 20% by CO₂. It's then re-emitted and re-absorbed as it moves up through the atmosphere cooling as it rises in thinner colder air. At 15/20km it is finally radiated to space and the cold air falls to cool the surface.

In a greenhouse sunlight gets through glass- it's very short wave. But it cannot get out when reflected back - it's then too long wave. So it cannot escape by rising to thinner cold air outside.

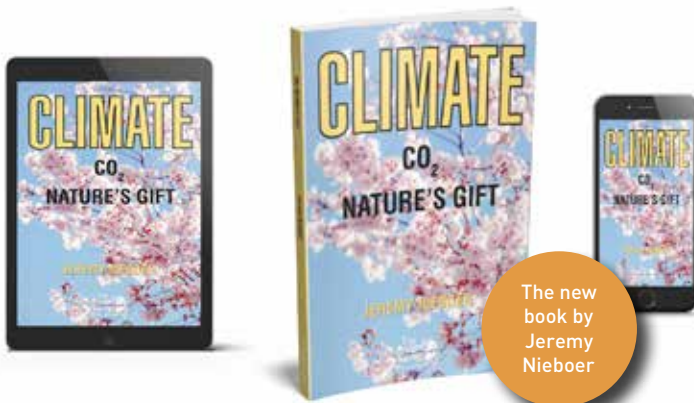

By slowing escape of 6% of the Sun's heat to space H₂O and CO₂ keep the Earth at 15OC when otherwise it would be a snowball. Over 600m years since life appeared on Earth and CO₂ was up to 8 times as dense as today it never caused global warming.

But it's not just that.

CO₂ only absorbs heat within a very tight band of wavelengths it shares (35%) with H₂O (65%). Even then it has to be in precise 'quanta' or 'lumps' of energy. So once CO₂ is over 250 parts per million of the air (now 417 ppm) it cannot absorb any more radiation - it's what is called "saturated".

That is why there has never been global warming due to CO₂ and never will be. The climate fanatics know this but conceal it.

THERE IS NO CLIMATE CRISIS.

NO CO₂ HEAT CORRELATION

How do we know that when it gets very cold the roads are dangerous?
Because ice forms. Or does ice form and then it gets cold?

That is what green climate fanatics say about CO₂. Their cult doctrine is that CO₂ causes dangerous heating of the planet.

A groundbreaking new book CLIMATE CO₂ Nature's Gift exposes this falsehood for what it is – the exact opposite of the truth. When the temperature rises only then do CO₂ levels rise. When it falls CO₂ levels fall.

And why? Because most CO₂ in the atmosphere is released from the oceans when they warm and is absorbed by them when they are very cold. 56% of all CO₂ in the atmosphere comes from the oceans. 38% is given off by the breathing of humans, other creatures and plants. Human fossil fuel emissions provide just 5%.

Ice cores for over 400,000 years all show it is the rise in temperature which leads to more CO₂ following later. CO₂ does not cause heating but is released by it. Over the past 600m years there was no global warming when CO₂ was up to 8 times higher than today.

The 'Little Ice Age' lasted 400 years ending in 1800. The Thames froze over. There was a fall in the Sun's energy. But then temperature rose for the next 100 years with no rise in CO₂. With the industrial age CO₂ has risen in an unbroken curve but temperature has been wildly erratic. 1947 and 1963 were the coldest for over 200 years.

Effect is what follows cause.

6% of Earth's surface heat is partly intercepted by water vapour (80%) and CO₂ (20%) slowing its escape to space. This keeps Earth at an average 15C so it does not become a snowball. That is all.

THERE IS NO CLIMATE CRISIS.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR FFS

In an orgy of virtue signalling Government has abandoned our own coal, oil; and gas. We were self-sufficient in these until 2004. Now the future must be wind and sun power.

But these depend on changing atmospheric conditions. High winds or none cripple windmill power. The sun does not shine at night or if obscured by clouds. Only 6% of its energy radiates back from the Earth to be absorbed and re-radiated to space.

The people were not asked if they agreed to our economy and population depending for its industry and warmth on intermittent energy from windmills and sun traps.

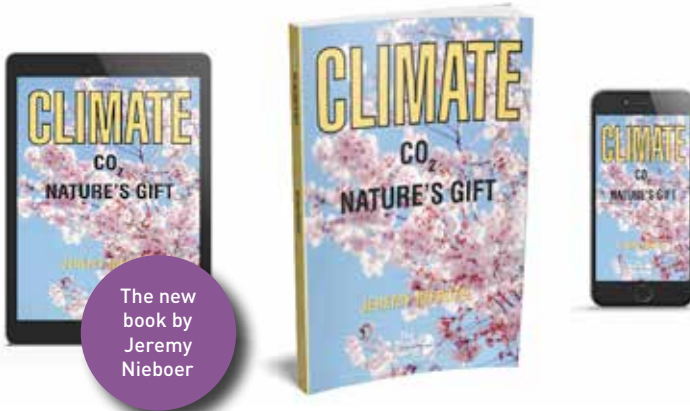

The Government's 'UK Energy in Brief 2021' shows that only 4% of power generation came from wind—a pitiful 0.7% from sun panels. It is only because we import 50% of our gas that the lights stay on. But at what cost? Why are we subsidising tiny wind and sun generation while being driven to financial ruin?

It is because our governing elite has submitted utterly to the cult of climate fanatics prophesying the end of humanity due to CO₂ emissions causing irreversible heating.

The seminal book CO₂ – Nature's Gift demonstrates that CO₂ has for millions of years been fully saturated with radiation from the Earth. It simply is not able as a matter of physics to absorb more. It has never caused global warming even at eight times present density. It only takes a minor part (20%) with water vapour (80%) to slow escape to space of just 6% of the sun's heat so keeping Earth at an average of 150C.

Earth temperature has fallen 0.220 C since 1998. From 1980 its rise was just 0.0270 C. Temperature depends on the sun's cycles of activity – not on any gas or water vapour.

SELF SUFFICIENCY

The UK became a net exporter of energy in 1981. It was self-sufficient. But since 2000 our own oil production has fallen by 62% with our gas down by 65% and coal by 94%. We now import 35% of our main fuels and 50% of our gas.

Yet there is enough gas on mainland UK to power us for 50 years as shown by the USA fracking revolution. Land and North Sea coal reserves run into billions of tonnes. Oil companies are ready to open up North Sea drilling but the Government seeks to make them pay for its own failure to keep us self-sufficient.

Why has this come about? It's not the Ukraine war. It's not the disappearance of coal, gas and oil deposits. It's not because we do not have the technology.

It is because Governments have bent the knee to the fanatical dogma of 'Climate Change' – the colossal lie that CO₂ emissions from fossil fuels creates a blanket in the atmosphere keeping heat from the Earth's surface which will bring our world to an end.

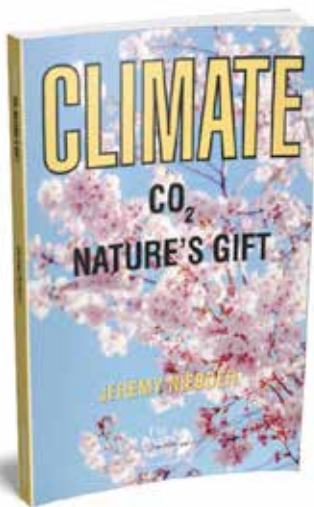

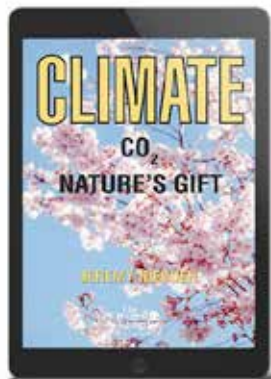

The new groundbreaking book CLIMATE CO₂Nature's Gift exposes this shocking falsehood. It shows that CO₂ cannot absorb heat beyond tiny amounts. If it were three times present density it would make no difference. Never in the past 600million years has there been runaway warming due to CO₂ even when eight times present levels.

CO₂ provides the food of plants – and so of all humanity – and all our oxygen. It is not a pollutant. We breathe out 1 kg of it each day. It is greening deserts and drylands. It is the reason the world is being fed despite population doubling over the 70 years.
